The Photoshop Coaching Kit (www.photoshopcoachingkit.com) has plenty of good tutorials for beginners. Photo Stitching The photo stitching programs shown in Table 3-2 offer a quick way to edit and stitch together multiple photos into a panoramic image. These programs do not replace Photoshop, but rather provide a useful way to make one or more individual images into a single image with the capability to zap a panorama into a photo editor, save, and, finally, print the panoramic image. When you project a virtual image, it is actually two images that have been stitched together, so if you tilt your image even a slight amount, the final image will not appear as you had intended. Therefore, be careful to make sure the camera is not tilted at all, especially when taking panoramas that you plan to print. The programs shown in Table 3-2 let you choose from a variety of different projection methods for the photos that you want to stitch together. This gives you the ability to build a panoramic image in different ways. The programs can also create borders and show the stitching lines when you load the image for editing. Some of the programs have a preview mode while in the stitching process. If you leave the program in this mode to save the final panorama, you can then quickly view the results to find the best stitching area and crop the results to get rid of any stitching lines. If you have been wanting to see a full view of the stitching and see the stitching lines in the preview, you can output the image to see the stitch lines in either the final product window or in the preview window. Some of the programs, including Fisheye Studio, also have a function that allows you to select a different view, such as the sides or front of the camera, as well as a to-scale and X-, Y-, and Z-axis zoom. The program shown in Table 3-2 includes some of the more popular stitching tools, including grid stitching, orientation, and cropping tools. The stitching programs allow you to stitch several images onto one file. After you have loaded the images into the program, you can select a stitch size from the horizontal and vertical size and rotate the images if you want to stitch them together. You can also use a zoom or transform function to zoom in on the selected area or try different cropping tools to select an area to stitch together.

Jesus was crucified by the Romans and his bones were buried in a tomb. After 2000 years, He has risen again. Why? The Roman Catholics answered, "Jesus rose from the dead to give us a better life in heaven forever." However, the Bible answers, "Jesus rose from the dead to destroy the works of the devil and to make us the new temple of God. We are to serve the true God and to live by His holy laws." If you have read the three main parts of this series, you should be qualified to make a decision about Jesus Christ. In this video series: Paul Maier on Jesus; David Barton on his own history as a Christian; Cathy Seifert's testimony on the reformation; Ron Paul on the Federal Reserve and the Right to Privacy; and Throckmorton on Science and the bible. All of these guys are Christians with a high view of God's Word and the Bible. You will see that Christianity is the religion of one. In one book that one person wrote, the Bible, one person tells about one Jesus, and about Him one book is written. The method the Roman Catholics used to attempt to get people to be born-again and join their church was by using fear. "If you don't join us you'll be going to hell." The method the Christians used was to show that Jesus is the only way to heaven, and that if you don't serve Him you will spend eternity in hell. Back to The Jesus Puzzle Look again at the question for a Christian."Is Jesus the Son of God?" If you are not a Christian and you hear about Jesus, how will you decide if He is the Son of God? Before you watch this video, you need to have a Bible and be well grounded in what it says about Jesus. All of you who do not know what the bible says about Jesus, I suggest you go to my page on the Jesus Puzzle to learn about Jesus Christ. This video is about the question, "Is Jesus the Son of God?" It was created by the same guy who created this video. To see the last video that Paul made on this question "Is Jesus the Son of God" please go to the following link: This video has a picture of a magnifying glass in the background.
