One of the more basic tasks in Photoshop is to reduce an image's size without a loss of resolution or quality.

Reducing image size By changing the scale and orientation, you can reduce an image's size and still retain the same proportions and details as the original image. Small images generally require a scale of 150 percent to 300 percent. However, you can change the scale to anything you like (under 400 percent) depending on your needs. Small images are especially popular as holiday cards and invitations. You can change the size of a portrait to create a picture that's more than 1 inch smaller. And if you use a Web site that's not set at a higher resolution, you can use an image that's more than half its original size.

Reducing the size of an image enables you to create cards and other electronic file formats that meet the standards of your professional community. If you send images to a Web site that's not at a high resolution, like many Web site managers (particularly those who create e-mail newsletters), you can reduce the size of images in your e-mail. You can reduce images in the following ways: Scale: After selecting the image, choose Image⇒Image Size⇒Scale⇒Scale. Use the options at the right side of the dialog box, shown in

Select the scale percentage, which is between 100 to 400 percent. • Width and Height: Enter the width and height you want to scale the image to, in pixels. Figure 5-2: Choose the options to reduce an image. You can change the orientation of an image after it's reduced to fit the new dimensions. Choose Image⇒Rotate Image. If you're reducing the size of a single picture, skip this step. If you're reducing the size of an image series, use the Rotate option on a single image so that the first picture will be aligned with the other pictures in the series. Change the location of the crop lines: You can change the location of the crop lines on an image after scaling. Choose Edit⇒Crop, shown in Figure 5-3. Click the dialog box's

Pick buttons to see what you want to crop. Choose any area and click OK to crop the image. Figure 5-3: Crop your image after you change its size.

How to use Photoshop

Elements? To get started with Photoshop Elements, open the application from the start screen. After opening Photoshop Elements, you should see the Home tab on the left. Click on the Tools tab on the bottom of the screen to open the toolbox. Photoshop Elements supports the same file formats as Photoshop. Start with the Create a New Image window to create or edit an image. Choose File > Create and select a folder to save images. On the top bar, select an option from the Toolbox and press Enter. Select a tool and press Enter to select an effect, brush, filter or tool. You can also select the Rectangular or Content-Aware options. Use the left and right arrow keys to browse options in the toolbox. Click on the Enter button to place an object or a group of objects onto the image. Scroll up and down in the image window to move the objects and pan the image. Click on the Zoom tool (Image > Zoom Tool) to zoom into or out of the image. Press Enter to apply an effect, apply layer styles, create a new layer or place an object. To create a new file, press Command + N. To exit the program, press Esc.

Intermediate Photoshop

Elements users can use the Brushes options to apply gradients, textures and pattern brushes. There are three types of brush for you to choose from: Traditional, Digital Specialty and Real World. Click on the Brush

Options button to choose the brush. You can also double-click on a brush in the list. To preview the brushes, click on an empty area in the image. To save the brush, hover on the toolbar, then click on the Stencil icon and then Save Brush in the bottom-right corner. Using the Blur tool: Click on the

Blur tool in the toolbox to apply the effect. To

Namecheap is down (correct)
- dhakira =====

DSingularity Happy to help.
We use a lot of authoritative DNS services. When Namecheap bounced, I came to ask what was happening. I have emailed a few of my observers about the status. namecheap.com cannot resolve as are any of our authoritative DNS servers. I am making a guess that they are likely down due to their own traffic and domain name. ~~~ jameskegel Do you have any insight as to what it is like to manage a domain on NameCheap and Yandex domains? I've been digging through GoDaddy and now that I see people are saying NameCheap is down, I'm curious if it's really that bad. ~~~ DJHenk I got a new domain from Yandex a few days ago, it was one line of code to set up the DNS through their panel - and one line to get the name back!

Other than that they are very similar. Maybe a week or two. Late effects of short-course radiotherapy for stage I non-small cell lung cancer. There is no consensus about the optimal management of patients with stage I non-small cell lung cancer (NSCLC) who have a negative surgical risk. The aim of this study was to assess the long-term efficacy of a short course of radiotherapy with or without chemotherapy in such patients. All stage I NSCLC patients treated with short course radiotherapy between 1990 and 2000 were included. Short-course radiotherapy consisted of a total dose of 40 Gy over 4 weeks. The use of chemotherapy was decided according to the patients' performance status.

Actuarial survival, local, distant and survival rates were calculated according to the Kaplan-Meier method. A total of 363 patients were included in the study. None of these patients received a surgery. A total of 115 patients (30.7%) received no chemotherapy. On multivariate analysis, age, sex, histology, and performance status were found as significant prognostic factors for survival ($p=0.009$, $p=0.020$, $p=0.038$, and p

Q: SignalR windows 8 app on page load I'm developing my first win8 app using VS2013 and I'm having some issues with signalR. I have a default asp.net website that contains a page that will connect to a signalR server with hub using its javascript file. The problem I'm having is that when I run my app I see my hub name under the javascript tools and I'm able to successfully connect and disconnect, however the page doesn't load and I have to refresh to see any of the content. This is my hub code: This is my page code: Now before anyone asks, the default site I'm working with works just fine, which makes me think it's an issue with my app, but I have no idea where to look for the answer. Any ideas? A: SignalR is a client-side technology. It doesn't run during
