I was able to get the trial version to work fine by having the installation folder in the environment variable PATH. Now I have my own copy, and have a few minor complaints. I won't give it a low rating, because I don't want to discourage anyone from using it. I won't give it 5 stars, because it is not perfect. Here's what I found to be very frustrating: When I want to use the settings that I have the program do, I have to go into the program and select "launch" to start the application. The settings I want are only listed as "launching". When I then go to "launch in" mode and select the settings I want, and click on "launch", nothing happens. It just stays on the launch settings screen. Other than that, it worked fine. I have not noticed any issues. The only time I got into trouble was when I had the trial version installed. When I had the trial version, it would always
