formados por grandes supermercados que reciben productos y distribuyen sus productos a locales de departamentos de pradera y departamentos de urbanización. Los mercados comunes son una fórmula para supermercados beneficiarse del mercado y organizar sus precios y recompensas a los clientes con la salvedad de que las ofertas pueden ser diferentes en cada uno de ellos Existen tres tipos de mercado común, conformadas por los mercados Vigo-Lorca, Madrid-Campaña y Barcelona-Vallès. En este caso, los productos vendidos en los primeros mercados de común se ofrecen a más clientes que los que venden los demás mercados. Por ello, estos mercados reciben productos de estas otras localizaciones, y a cambio se les entregan los productos a un precio menor al que ofrecen. Como resultado, los clientes de los mercados Comunes no sólo tienen suficiente diversidad de opciones, sino también una mejor calidad de los productos, un mejor precio y a menor coste.
