HyperMotion Technology brings playing football in FIFA 22 like never before with new ball physics, animations and greater player collisions to deliver more realistic and fully immersive gameplay. HyperMotion Technology has been developed to create a more immersive FIFA environment than ever before. This game-changing development heralds a whole new dimension of authenticity for players as they experience the sensations of kicking a ball, dribbling past a defender, and anticipating players’ movements in the final moments before a shot or an aerial duel. New Balls FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology,” which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power gameplay. New Ball Physics Each ball has a unique design that includes a texture that compliments the playing surface. The size and weight of the ball has also been tuned based on the position and situation of the player. Balls can be easily tossed by hand and can be used in bursts. Players must check for opponent activity in front of them, as their initial actions and reactions can easily influence the momentum and speed of the ball. Players can be aware of where the ball is going thanks to new data-driven animations that encourage a wider range of body movements. New Player Movement and Pass Animations FIFA 22 introduces a refined pass animation that allows players to pass the ball on more realistic trajectories. Players’ movements and body positions in the final moments before a pass are fully represented thanks to new physics-based animations that tell a full story of how the ball moves through the air
