The effect of total lymphoid irradiation in a small animal model of chronic wound healing. The effect of total lymphoid irradiation (TLI) on wound healing in a rat model was determined. A 2.5 x 2.5 cm area was applied on the back of each of five Sprague-Dawley rats that underwent TLI on one side and sham irradiation on the other. The wounds were photographed at baseline and at 10 and 20 days after the irradiation. Wound area was measured digitally on each photograph. Wounds were split into two anatomic zones (ulcer area and granulation tissue). Wound area, granulation area, and ulcer area were compared with repeated measures analysis of variance (ANOVA). A significant effect was found for both time and irradiation on the granulation areas of the ulcers. No difference between irradiated and sham irradiated sides was noted at any of the time periods. TLI had no effect on wound healing in this model of chronic wound healing.Q: creating a table in db.sqls I have a problem with creating a table in db.sqls, I want to make it that when I enter the type of player in the textfield, for example {P [last name]} and hit the command button, the last name of that player goes to the table in the db.sqls. At the moment when I run my program, the last name is displayed at the command prompt, but when I enter the second player
