Makefile: error: missing dependency information for target (blah) I have added LIBS= -lm -lsupc++ Why is it that i dont get this error on my other makefiles? A: If you want to make sure that a dependency is met for a rule, put the expected dependency in the rule itself. You have to do this even when the rule is a dependency for another rule, so that you get an error if you forget to match the dependency at the start of a dependency chain. C++0x introduces the concept to make this easier, but there is a lot of work to get there. For example, you want to make a bunch of foo objects that also require libfoo.h. foo.cpp: g++ -fPIC -c foo.cpp -I. -I/usr/include/v8 -I/usr/local/include -I/usr/lib/gcc/i486-linux-gnu/4.3.3/include/ -I/usr/local/lib/gcc/i486-linux-gnu/4.3.3/include/ -DFOO_HEADERS -DLIBFOO_HEADERS -I/usr/local/include/v8/include -I/usr/local/include -I/usr/lib/gcc/i486 648931e174

Just in case, you should know that some mods, like TouchWiz, are not installed on every edition and some of them are not even required. In case you encounter problems during the installation, you should refer to the "Instructions for advanced users" section. To get the fastest speeds, you should use WiFi Direct for both devices. Doing so frees up the phones for more processing power. Make sure to load your application right after the phone is powered on. This may require you to put your Android phone to sleep. Tap the back button twice from the app's home screen. Go to the settings section and select "Apps" and remove the background app. After you finish removing the background app, open the app again and select "Restart" in the top left corner. Open the Settings app and go to "Connections" and tap on the Bluetooth icon. Make sure that the Bluetooth is turned on. To pair your Samsung Galaxy J2 with a Bluetooth headset, turn on Bluetooth on the device and turn on your headset. If there's a warning about the headset being in standby mode, press and hold the Mute button and select "Bluetooth" to connect. Your Samsung Galaxy J2 should now show up as a new "Activity" in the Bluetooth settings.A Giant Cutaneous Lymphoma Associated with Ocular Disease. The authors describe the cutaneous presentation of a B-cell non-Hodgkin lymphoma in a 60-year-old woman, who is incidentally found to have uveitis. The patient had "immunocompetent" lymphomatous skin lesions of the trunk, with no bone or nodal involvement. No cutaneous lymphoma was initially suspected. During the first year, ophthalmologic examination incidentally disclosed uveitis in the right eye, and the patient developed a palpable tumor on her left malar region. Ophthalmologic examination disclosed a choroidal tumor, but no intraocular lesions were noted. Diagnosis of cutaneous lymphoma was accomplished by histologic examination of the skin bi
