Game Masters, wouldn't it be cool to have the advantage of hosting the most epic adventure of all time? This is where you can do exactly that! There are no typical game masters found in a fantasy campaign. We are here to tell you that not every campaign can include a dragon, beast, wraith, human or elf, thus you may not be able to connect to a campaign that would require any of these skills. You might even need to create your own adventure to run your campaign with dragons, beast, wraiths, human or elf. Paths to Adventure has set up a way to help connect your campaign to one of the most incredible things you can create in your game or campaign. We have mapped out a series of hand crafted adventures in which the characters battle a fiendish labyrinth created to trap them and entomb them in the bowels of the world. Each individual map will have the player's adventure on one side and a side for your campaign. Thus, you have the power to pick and choose which adventure you like best. Do you want a game where your character is attacked by an ancient evil, does the PC wander the underworld as they attempt to find their way out of a dangerous labyrinth? Do you want your players to be swept away to a fantasy world filled with riches and danger? Do you want them to be trapped in an insane asylum that runs on a mixture of hysteria and mayhem? Do you want your players to be dragged into a different dimension where they must escape the clutches of an evil underworld, or do you want them to fight off a demon-beast hell-spawn that has returned from the dead? Perhaps the adventure you would like to host takes place during a strange war in a different realm with an advanced civilization and a race of powerful magicians that can move themselves about via sorcery and teleportation. Paths to Adventure: The Adamant Keeps allows you to play these ten custom maps in different ways. You can go with any of the options for your adventure as they are laid out for each of the different adventure packs.
