"black" & "black". Constructions of the Word "Black" The term "black" can be used in many different ways. It has a broad and varied usage. An African American can use the term as a synonym for "dark" or "brown". This usage can also be used in a negative context, as in the phrase, "I'm a black nigger." "Black" can also be used in a negative context to describe a non-African American. "Black" can also be used in a negative context as in the phrase, "They are just black racists." "Black" can also be used in a negative context as in the phrase, "It was just black and white." The first black president The idea that "black" refers to a certain culture, in this case an African-American culture, is illustrated by the fact that there is a whole dictionary with a separate entry for "black". There is also a whole series of adjectives to describe shades of black. A black _____ . A black _____. "Black" is a "color" in one sense. Color is a category of perceived properties. However, the noun "color" is not a good synonym for "black". Black (coloring) Black (qualifier) Black (regarding... Black (about...) Black (fearful) Black (unpleasant) "black" can also be used in a positive context. "He is a black man." The number "12" written in a black circle The common usage of the term "black" in a negative context causes problems. It has often been used in the negative context to describe someone of a certain race. An example of this is the use of the term "nigger" to describe a racist person of African descent. There are many people, including African American writers, who have written critiques of the use of the term "black" in this manner. The use of the term "black" to describe a particular race is racially discriminatory. The use of the term "black" in a positive context to describe a particular race is also unfair. The use of the term "black" to describe the character of an African American is also inaccurate. As a person of African descent,
