8Dio Studio Solo Violin Vst DownloadQ: Create a Copy of a NSArray in Swift I have a class called Customer which is a subclass of NSObject. I want to create a copy of the array. Currently I am just doing this manually: `public var customers = Customer public func copyCustomers() -> [Customer] { let customersCopy = Customer for customer in customers { customersCopy.append(customer) } return customersCopy }` However, I want to make this work automatically. Can someone point me in the right direction? A: You can make it a property. Then you don't have to create a new array manually `class Customer { var customers = Customer var copyCustomers: [Customer] { return [self.customers] } }` But if you want to write your own copy method, you just need this: `public func copyCustomers() -> [Customer] { return customers.map { Customer() } }`
